Price and Value

Ensuring customers receive essential product services, attain all features, and exceptional value for their investment is crucial for a favourable outcome.

Target for a good outcome	Relevant contributors	Last 12 months	Since inception (Jan 2020)

Yes - All investors allocated portfolios of around 5-8 companies with the potential to grow by 3x over the long term. Average portfolio size over the last 12 months is six.	All investors allocated portfolios of around 5-8 companies with the potential to grow by 3x over the long term. Average number of companies in a portfolio since inception is six.
Product outcomes are attained for each investor	Companies are EIS-qualifying at the time of investment.	All investee companies received EIS advance assurance prior to receiving investment.	Of the investments made to date, all were assessed as EIS qualifying at the time of investment.
	Portfolio Performance	Too early to evidence. No exits to date.
	Full deployment within nine months of each interim closing date.	The typical duration for portfolio deployment is eight months.	On average, it takes eight months to fully deploy a portfolio since its inception. The longest duration recorded is 12 months, while the shortest is four months.
	Successful exits achieved.	No exits to date – this is a long-term investment with an 6-10 year expected exit horizon.
An investor cannot obtain a comparable product or service for a lower fee.	EIS portfolios with similar overall pricing have been identified, but none of them provide customers with the same proposition.	Pricing – brief outline of fees. This maximises the capital invested in each company upfront, which is beneficial for both tax relief and capital growth. Lead by Dominic Keen, a successful British technology entrepreneur.

Investing in start-ups and early-stage companies involves risks, including illiquidity, lack of dividends, loss of investment and dilution. It should be done only as part of a diversified portfolio. There is no assurance that the investment objectives of any investment opportunity will be achieved or that the strategies and methods described by the product will be successful. Past performance is not necessarily a guide to future performance and the value of an investment may go down as well as up.

Tax reliefs available on these investments depend on individual circumstances. Tax treatment is assumed as per current legislation and interpretation, which may change in the future. Tax reliefs also depend on the portfolio companies maintaining qualifying status, which is not guaranteed.

The investments discussed are not suitable for everyone. This document does not constitute advice on investments, legal matters, taxation or any other matters. Any recommendation should be based on a holistic review of a client's financial situation, objectives and needs.
